DOCUMENTATION: STRATEGIES TO MINIMIZE RISK & THE IMPORTANCE OF SAFETY PROTOCOLS

Hans Bruhn, OMIC Risk Manager

1.0 IJCAHPO CE Credit

This two-part course uses actual closed medical malpractice claims to illustrate where insufficient documentation negatively impacted claims as well as the importance of safety protocols in a clinic practice and surgical facility to prevent patient harm and mitigate liability risk.

COMMON CODING ERRORS THAT RESULT IN CLAIM DENIALS AND OVERPAYMENTS

Jacqueline Thelian, CPC, CPC-I, CHCA, CPMA

1.0 IJCAHPO CE Credit

Join us for an in-depth course designed specifically for professionals working with ophthalmology coding. This session will delve into real-world ophthalmology case studies and provide actionable solutions to some of the most pressing coding challenges in the field. Led by experienced coding specialists, the course offers practical tips to boost both the efficiency and precision of your coding practices, leading to optimized reimbursement and reduced administrative burdens.

INTERNAL AUDIT PROCESS

Laurie Brown, MBA, COMT, COE, CPC

1.0 IJCAHPO CE Credit

One of the most effective tools a practice can use to ensure compliance is conducting internal medical record audits. This course will educate attendees on key principles of and options for internal chart audits performed as part of their compliance plan and risk management. Internal chart audits are an important component of continuous quality improvement, which provides significant training and education opportunities to aid in compliance efforts.

THE TECHNICIAN'S ROLE AND VALUE IN CODING DOCUMENTATION

Jacqueline Thelian, CPC, CPC-I, CHCA, CPMA

1.0 IJCAHPO CE Credit

Are you ready to elevate your ophthalmology practice? Join us for a dynamic webinar exploring the indispensable role of ophthalmic technicians in coding documentation and clinical workflows. This session will empower technicians with the tools and knowledge to ensure smooth clinic operations through precise documentation, support high-quality patient care from intake to follow-up, and stay ahead of regulatory requirements and industry standards.

DOCUMENTATION AND CODING IN RETINA

Christine McDonald, COA

1.0 IJCAHPO CE Credit

Why is chart documentation so important when it comes to retina coding and billing? This course will discuss the direct relationship between documentation and coding and how physicians and practices are paid.

CODING Q & A

Jacqueline Thelian, CPC, CPC-I, CHCA, CPMA

1.0 IJCAHPO CE Credit

Attendees of Jacqueline Thelian, CPC, CPC-I, CHCA, CPMA's courses—Common Coding Errors That Result in Claim Denials and Overpayments and The Technician's Role and Value in Coding Documentation—are invited to submit their coding-related questions to education@jcahpo.org throughout the duration of the 2025 Coding EYEXchange. Questions should be specific to the topics covered in these two sessions. Submitted questions will be reviewed and addressed in a follow-up Q&A webinar, available for access from September 23–30, 2025.

FEATURED INSTRUCTOR:

Jacqueline Thelian, CPC, CPC-I, CHCA, CPMA
